DOES YOUR MEETING GROUP HOLD "ZOOM" MEETINGS?

If the answer is yes, the Inter-Group Association of A.A. of New York, Inc. (NYIG) has provided a written toolkit, referred to as the "Zoom Protection Guide" for the handling of unwanted Zoom meeting disruptions / hackers .

To read a copy of it, go to this link:

https://oc-aa.org/docs/NYIG_Zoom_Protection_Guide_033020.pdf

FROM ORANGE COUNTY CENTRAL OFFICE:

Changes in ZOOM password information To our members:

If your meeting was set up using a Basic (Free) Zoom or single-license, Pro Zoom account you may need to take action to ensure the meeting information we have posted on our meeting schedule is still accurate and that the meeting can still be accessed.

Why? Because effective immediately, Zoom implemented changes to those two types of accounts. In short, Meeting Passwords will be TURNED ON by default; the prior default was OFF. Further, you will need to resend your meeting information to manager@oc-aa.org . Please be sure to include the meeting name, day, time , URL, Meeting ID, and a contact person with phone # or email address.

Note: Each group will need to decide on its own course of action with regard to the changes Zoom made to its service and the meeting host will need to implement it.

All decisions will be re-evaluated as the situation changes; we are doing our best and appreciate your support and understanding.

Our 24/7 phone line and closely monitored e-mail are still available for any 12 step phone calls that need to be made and any questions from newcomers or anyone needing information.

Your OCAA Central Office

Be sure to let both DISTRICT 5 and O.C. CENTRAL OFFICE know if your meeting group has changed its location, day/start time, or has become inactive, as your meeting may be the one a 'head-spinning' suffering alcoholic may be needing.

Does your meeting have information that it'd like to share with others??

If so, email it to District 5's Newsletter Editor (Vicki R.) at wrkaaitwrks.com and it will be included in the next quarterly newsletter.

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

D. A. KLEVEN, 8036 So. Racine Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, says he once had many fears of all kinds but he was always able to drown them even though it took at least a quart of whiskey a day to accomplish this. He went to see a doctor who said at the rate he was going he might live a year.

Then came his greatest fear: the fear of forever being a slave to alcohol, the fear of ending in a drunkard's grave, the fear of being behind locked doors of a mental institution, with a wet brain, or behind bars with a murder charge as the result of drunken driving.

One night soon after this realization God must have extended a helping hand, for two people from Alcoholics Anonymous came to see him. He admitted he was powerless over alcohol and that his life had become unmanageable, but after a convincing talk by his callers he placed his faith in Alcoholics Anonymous and soon he made a decision to turn his will and his life over to God's care. As he understands Him, he accepted the help extended him and believed all he was told.

CARNEGIE

His faith grew and grew and fear disappeared. He learned to live twenty-four hours at a time. Yesterday gone, tomorrow not yet here, today he lives the best he can. As a result of all this, he has faith, hope, love and most of all, peace of mind. Faith in Alcoholics Anonymous taught him to have faith in himself, in his fellow men and above all in God who is always with us.

Every day he uses this prayer:

God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change; courage to change the things I can; and wisdom to know the difference.

Alcoholics Anonymous Provide Morale Peg for Drink Victims

Local Membership Flowers Under Calm, Non-Militant Campaign of Helpfulness

This is the first article of a series on Alcoholics Anonymous, national brotherhood of recovered alcoholics who are achieving more recoveries from rum by mutual helpfulness. The writer recently introduced the subject in a story in The Sunday Star. The series starting today is based upon material for which space did not allow previous presentation.

By ROBERT A. ERWIN.

Success often comes with surprising speed, especially when something new is tried and found working. Such has been the case with the expanding Washington Chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, whose members do their work in obscurity and shirk the public limelight in order that their efforts be not hampered.

In fact, the Washington A. A.'s have shown a recent inclination to combat overconfidence, which they know is one of the greatest enemies of a recovered "rummy."

Membership Above 50.

There are now more than 50 members in the Capital group. Their numbers grow with each Tuesday night meeting at a downtown clubhouse. Any club is an appropriate meeting place for the A. A.'s, because their group is more of a club or brotherhood than anything else. Not a one of them hides the fact that he has been "through the mill" as a drinker, from a beginning in youth to the ending in some sanatorium or hospital.

Some of them know that they picked up the pieces and put them back together only a short time ago with the assistance of ex-alcoholics who can read the mind of a drunk better than anybody else. They know that abstinence from strong drink is only a day-to-day proposition.

Therefore, they took time out at a recent Tuesday night session to recapitulate.

"There is no use to pat ourselves on the back," one of the leaders said. "We must keep working to help others and in that way we never will have ourselves to worry about."

Debate Invitations.

Some members favored urging alcoholic acquaintances to come to the informal meetings. Others felt the best course was merely to "tell them about the A. A.'s and let them come if they wish." Controversy is almost unheard of at an A. A. meeting, and this issue was left unsettled after a very friendly debate.

The Washington chapter, therefore, arranged for new members to share meeting leadership with the older ones, with alternating occupants of the chair each meeting and with a "ladies' night" now and then. The woman members, it might be added, fall into two classifications, those who have recovered from alcoholism and want to stay that way, and those who come with their husbands who once were "rummies."

At this point, it is well to review the background of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was conceived five years ago in the mind of a 43-year-old Vermonter, an often-numbered veteran of whisky and gin, as he lay in a New York hospital. He knew that doctors, ministers, members of his own family and others had been unable to help him.

In the course of what he described as a "spiritual experience," he became convinced that one alcoholic was best qualified to help another and he put the theory to work. It has been working ever since and has become a Nation-wide volunteer movement in the form of an organization that has no dues, no officers, no house organ, no professional promoters and solicits no funds.

Two Watchwords.

The keystone of Alcoholics Anonymous is religion—with religious freedom. An A. A. must recognize that there is a power greater than himself, and that from that power comes assistance along the road to recovery. Honesty and sincerity are two of the watchwords. The former toppers recognize that great failing of many drunks—the failure to be honest with themselves about their drinking.

Founders of the movement wrote their own case histories into a book, "Alcoholics Anonymous," that carries its message. The chapter, "How It Works," begins with this statement:

"Rarely have we seen a person fall who has thoroughly followed our path. Those who do not recover are people who cannot or will not completely give themselves to this simple program, usually men and women who are constitutionally incapable of being honest with themselves.

"Some Born That Way."

"There are such unfortunates. They seem to have been born that way. They are naturally incapable of grasping and developing a manner of living which demands rigorous honesty. Their chances are less than average.

"There are those, too, who suffer from grave emotional and mental disorders; but many of these do recover if they have the capacity to be honest."

When a drunkard is still in the "fog" and cannot think straight or look at himself in the mirror of objectivity, the A. A.'s do not approach him. They wait until his head has cleared.

The next article of this series will be continued in District 5's "Issue 18 - 3rd Quarter - 2020" Newsletter.

Rollie Sets Mark Kicked Upstairs Again

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
Wide World Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Yess! that's Ralston Burdett Hemsley squatting down there under the latter, thumping his big mitt and chanting to Yankee pitchers—

"Right in here, boy . . . gimme it . . ."

And you think of blaming it on sun spots, this quirk of baseball fate which jerked Rollicking Rollie from the ash-can of discarded players to the No. 1 catching job for the world's No. 1 baseball team.

Rollie Hemsley . . . Tanks rescue him from ash-heap.

It all happened, of course, when the Yanks' Buddy Rosar went AWOL to take a policeman's civil service exam in Buffalo, leaving an irate Joe McCarthy to crarry on with an injured Bill Dickey. Even with Rosar's return Hemsley is slated for action.

McCarthy got Rollie on the phone just as he was leaving for his home after his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds, and there Hemsley was—embarking on what may be a fitting climax to one of the game's stormiest careers. Rollie at 35 doesn't have much further to go.

Aveteran of 16 years in the major leagues, Hemsley a few years back was one of the best backstops in the business but he made his biggest headlines because of his extra-curricular activities.

Headache For Vitt

Rollie no sooner had been traded to Cleveland by the Browns in the winter of 1939 than he made Oscar Vitt almost wish he'd never left Newark.

Several times he jumped the Tribal reservation in spring training. Night life and fire-water were an irresistible magnet to Rollie and he kept showing up unfit for duty. Vitt slapped fine after fine on him, suspended him a couple of times, but it appeared to have little effect.

Rollie kept insisting he'd stick to lemonade but he seemed to find the most potent lemonades extant. He only caught 68 games that year.

The following winter Hemsley joined Alcoholics Anonymous, that unusual organization that can almost guarantee to keep a man away from those swinging doors. Whatever their secret they did a beautiful job with Riotous Rollie. Rollie hasn't touched a drop of the stuff since, and in 1939 and 1940 he enjoyed a couple of highly-successful seasons with Cleveland.

Off To Poor Start

He slipped somewhat last year and was sold to Cincinnati last winter. But he only collected 13 hits in 115 times at bat for the Reds this season and Mill McKeehanie gave him his release.

Rollie celebrated his arrival with the Yankees by catching both ends of a doubleheader and blasting out five hits in eight trips to the plate.

Rollie's stimulus is an obvious one, however. It's the shot-in-the-arm any veteran would receive by going to a championship club. Especially with a chance at his first World Series in the offing.

Black Twirls No-Hit Game Against A's, 3-0

CLEVELAND, July 10—(U.P.)—Don Black, who joined Alcoholics Anonymous after he was fired from the Cleveland Indians as a playboy last season, pitched a 3 to 0, no-hit, no-run game tonight against the Philadelphia Athletics as the climax to a fine baseball comeback.

It was the first no-hitter in the American League this season, but the second in the majors in three weeks. Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Boston Braves at Cincinnati on June 22.

Black's team mate, Bobby Feller, after whom he has patterned his style as a pitcher, turned in the last no-hitter in the American League against the New York Yankees on April 30 of 1946.

The right hander walked six batters and struck out five. He retired the Athletics in order in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings.

Black, who was sent down to Milwaukee when he failed to make the grade with the Indians last season, asked president William Veeck for: "one more chance to make good" and got it after assuring the Cleveland boss he had joined Alcoholics Anonymous and was a "member in good standing."
